CANOPIUS HIRES VICTORIA PHILLIPS FOR ASIA PACIFIC ENERGY ROLE

Canopus today announces the appointment of Victoria Phillips as Energy Underwriter. Victoria joins from Marsh in Singapore. She will continue to be based in Singapore, reporting to Geoff Tin, Head of Energy, and working closely with the London team as well as the Renewable Energy team in the Netherlands.

Mark Newman, Head of AsiaPac MENA commented, "We pride ourselves on our joined-up approach to energy across our global offices, and our common strategy across our platforms ensures we offer a seamless energy product to our brokers. Victoria's enthusiasm and passion for finding excellent solutions to our clients' challenges, as well as her significant broking experience, will be a great asset to the team."

The Canopus energy offering is predominantly an upstream energy account, incorporating renewable energy, with limited midstream and downstream components. It offers protection for energy property physical damage, offshore construction all risks, excess third party liability and operators' extra expense / control of well risks. The renewable energy offering includes coverage for construction all risks, contingent delay in start-up, operational all risks, contingent business interruption and third party liabilities.
